

Daiwa Roto Rucksack

Description: This is a great bit of luggage – when you have one of these on your back, who needs a whole fly fishing bag or box? It does the job of those things quite easily, whether you're just out for a few hours on a local stillwater or hiking high up in the hills after some wild browns, it will do the job admirably with a lot less stress on your body.

This compact rucksack is designed to be rotated upon the single shoulder strap, bringing the forward-opening main pocket into place.

It is great for storing all manner of gadgets, gizmos and kit, you can get pretty much everything packed away into it.

One size fits the vast majority – the adjustable straps see to that – and we found it to be very comfortable indeed. None of the straps 'bite' so it's wearable the whole day long without any fuss. Unlike a lot of other rucksacks this product uses great material in its construction, incorporating breathable foam throughout – a very good idea.

- Rotating design for easy carrying and rapid access
- Zip-closure internal mesh pockets
- Two additional padded pockets
- 3D breathable foam padding throughout
